HYLO — The March monthly meeting of the Hylo Home and School was held in Division 1 of the school. A round table interview was held by the committee of the Home and School with Mr. Hall, Mr. Plamondon and Mr. Semeniuk representing the Lac la Biche School Division.

The question was raised as to the possibility of an addition to the present school set-up.

Mr. Hall stated that it was almost certain that this could not be had due to the division's financial standing and many other important factors concerning the division as a whole, which required immediate attention. Mr. Plamondon and Mr. Semeniuk explained as to the manner in which the division is operating.

The interview lasted almost 2½ hours with all parties at the interview table and some of the audience taking an active part. Thanks go to all concerned for making this meeting possible and it is hoped there will be many more meetings with as large an attendance.

At the end of the meeting coffee and doughnuts were served. The next Home and School meeting will be held on April 2 and plans are to have films at that time.

A cordial invitation is extended to one and all to attend.

The roads were so icy, it is a wonder that accidents don't happen more often. If he had been driving fast, the children might have been hurt badly, but as he was going slow and driving as carefully as possible, nobody was hurt badly. One of the girls, Anita Pare, received a cut on the head, but the others were unhurt. As he was only one mile from Plamondon, several men helped him turn the van right side up and Mr. Harold Belanger pulled him out of the ditch with a truck. The top of the van is badly caved in, but he can use it until he can have it repaired.

Edmonton Airport Forges Ahead; Seen Key International Base

OTTAWA — If Calgary has any dreams about becoming the main global airport of the Canadian northwest, forget them! Edmonton is slowly — but surely — emerging as the favorite to play out this international role.

Tipping the scales in favor of the provincial capital at the expense of Calgary are future plans of two international airlines.

Edmonton's fate could also be decided by the success or failure of negotiations now going on in Washington between the U.S. and Denmark, Norway and Sweden.

So far, the federal government has shown no inclination to favor one city over the other. They have no major expansion plans for the airports in either Calgary or Edmonton.

NO MENTION MADE

Earlier this month when Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier gave the Commons a brief survey on what the government's immediate plans were for expansion of Canada's major airports, he mentioned neither Calgary or Edmonton.

And a spokesman for his department underlined Chevrier's omission of the two centres by stating that little or no major airport expansion work will be done in the immediate future in either of these two cities.

He said there would be some work done at the Calgary airport this year, but of a minor nature. Included were plans for completion of a taxi strip, drainage and installation of a high-intensity lighting system.

AWAIT NEGOTIATIONS

As for Edmonton's air terminus, the government planned to spend no money there this fiscal year, he added.

One Transport Department source hinted that plans for these two centres were being held up pending the Washington negotiations and future plans of these two international airlines.

The two airlines concerned are British Overseas Airways Corporation, and Scandinavian Airlines System.

STOPS PLANNED

BOAC is now considering inauguration of a new flight from London to Tokyo via Canada, with stops at both Montreal and Edmonton.

The British line already has rights to fly to Canada in its trans-Atlantic run stopping at Montreal. It would need an extension of its rights to make the hop west with landings at Edmonton.

SAS wants the right to be able to land at Edmonton in its plans to fly from the U.S. Pacific coast to Europe via north pole. It has already made one trial flight over this run and it was successful. Denmark, Norway and Sweden

Soil Conditioners

The recent introduction of a group of chemicals called "soil conditioners" has aroused a great deal of interest in the agricultural industry. Since the introduction of "Krilium" — late in 1951 — a large number of "soil conditioners" have appeared on the market.

What Are They? Soil conditioners are complex synthetic chemicals which act chemically to improve the structure of soils, particularly silt and clay soils. This structural-improvement effect is remarkably stable and may last through several growing seasons. It is brought about by the chemical acting on the individual clay and silt particles, binding them together to form crumbs of varying sizes. The conditioners won't work on all soils, on soils which are in good physical condition, for example, or on sandy soils. When properly applied and mixed with silt and clay soils, however, they bring about a marked and rapid improvement in soil aggregation.

Not Fertilizers. None of the new soil conditioners are fertilizers. They do not add plant food to the soil, nor are they a substitute for organic matter. Soil conditioners influence plant growth only indirectly, that is, through the changes brought about in soil structure. It is true, of course, that good structure and soil fertility go hand in hand, but "soil conditioners" are not fertilizers.

Specialized Uses. The present price of soil conditioners, at over one dollar a pound, limits their usefulness in general agriculture. Extensive tests have shown, however, that they may be immediately useful in the management of horticultural soils—on new lawn surfaces prior to seeding; for nursery plantings, and for the improvement of lower beds and for the home garden. The discovery and development of soil conditioners is certainly of importance to prairie farmers. These chemicals will take an important place in our agriculture particularly when they become cheap enough for the average farmer to use them on his structurally-poor field soils to increase crop production.

Alberta Aids Young Nurses

EDMONTON — Health Minister Cross announced Wednesday a plan designed to encourage more girls to enter the nursing profession.

Dr. Cross gave details while speaking in the budget debate in the legislature.

If the legislature approves the plan, it will go into effect April 1, the minister said.

At present it costs a girl anywhere from $50 to $100 for text books, uniform and other expenses when she starts. Under the plan, if the hospital admits the girl without these customary charges, the government will pay the school $300 on the nurses' graduation.

Lucky Girls Go On Coronation Tour

TORONTO — Three Alberta girls were told last week they will go to the Coronation and afterwards tour Great Britain this summer for almost a month as guests of W. Garfield Weston.

They form part of a group of 50 girls representing all parts of Canada who were selected by schools to take the trip sponsored by the Canadian-born international industrialist as a means of cultivating closer Commonwealth relationships.

The girls were chosen in co-operation with the Canadian Education Association and provincial education departments. Every province, as well as the Yukon and Northwest Territories, is represented.

The group will sail for England, May 22, on the Empress of France and will spend nearly a month in England, Wales, Scotland, and Ireland touring famous cities and towns. In addition, the Canadian girls will spend several days in London at the Coronation with a similar group of 50 English girls who will be coming to Canada as Mr. Weston's guests.

Average age of the girls is 17. Selection standards take into consideration not only a candidate's scholastic record, but also leadership qualities and ability to absorb experiences while on the tour and later pass them on to others.

Alberta members of the tour are: Clarice Evans, Parkland; Denise Ryan, Stettler; Penny Wright, Edmonton.

Suspect Rabies Near Red Deer

RED DEER — A suspected case of rabies has been reported at a logging camp near Ardley, 30 miles east of Red Deer.

A dog showing symptoms of the illness was killed Tuesday and an RCMP constable from Trochu, M. J. Umhoeville, was dispatched to the scene.

The head of the animal has been sent to the government laboratory at Lethbridge for examination.

This is believed to be the first suspected case of rabies in central Alberta since the recent outbreak.

Cattle Embargo Lifted

The United States lifted its embargo against Canadian cattle on March 2 but has placed quotas on the number which may be shipped to that country. Effective April 1, yearly limits to be admitted at a duty rate of 1½ cents a lb. are 200,000 head of calves weighing under 200 lbs. and 400,000 head of cattle weighing 700 lbs. or more. Cattle between these weights and those exported in excess of these numbers are subject to a duty of 2½ cents a lb. The customs duty on fresh beef and veal entering the U.S. is three cents a pound.

With prices in the United States running at about the same level as those here in Canada it is not likely that many cattle will move across the line in the near future and the quotas are not likely to have any effect on shipments to that country.

The United States market was closed for Canadian cattle on February 25 last year when an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease was announced in Saskatchewan.

Hard Experiences

Hard places help us to know the resources of God. It is only under difficult circumstances that we know His all-sufficiency.

Israel was told, first, to stand still, and next, to behold the salvation of the Lord. When they ceased from their acting, God revealed His power. So He tells that the reason He led them through the wilderness, and exposed them to a situation where there were not natural supplies of any kind, was to teach that He was adequate for every need and that "man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

God can become real to us only up to the measure of our actual needs, and every difficult situation is just a vessel for Him to fill, an occasion for Him to show Himself in His infinite wisdom, power, and grace.

The Apostle Paul tells us that he was exposed to every sort of difficulty in order that the power of Christ might rest upon him according to his needs. Therefore he welcomed each new situation as another vessel for God to fill and another occasion for Him to say, "My grace is sufficient for thee."

Farm Income Taxes

(From the Calgary Albertan)

Objection has been raised in the House of Commons to the way income tax collectors "hound" the farmers. One Saskatchewan Liberal MP says that by persecuting the farmers in this way, the tax people are making socialists faster than he can make Liberals.

It is a known fact that there are many loopholes in the income tax assessment of farmers. Those who produce wheat have no chance to evade taxation because their income can be easily checked. But many others can and do take advantage of the tax payable. Call it cheating or dishonesty, difficulty of proving their income and their or smart business or what you will, but it is still tax evasion. It is most rampant in Quebec and Ontario and other places where farming is diversified.

In Quebec very little attempt is made to improve the tax collection from farmers. In some other provinces some effort is made. But on the prairies where it is possible to make some kind of a check, the authorities are doing that. And why shouldn't they? If the tax is payable it is up to tax authorities to see that it is paid. If that requires an army of inspectors, so what? If collecting the tax equitably and fully is too big a job or too dangerous politically, then the tax ought to be dropped and something else substituted. Perhaps farmers ought to pay a production tax instead. But that, too, would be difficult to enforce. The wage-earner, though, can't evade a cent of tax liability.

Canadian Bank Forced Out Of Business In Chicago

By T. W. PUE

An interested reader of the Edmonton Sun is a man who has never yet set eyes on any part of Alberta. My uncle, Alex Pue, a resident of Chicago, Ill., receives the paper each week and makes the strange confession that he likes it and finds it interesting.

Uncle Alex is an Irishman by birth (not so noticeable by temperament) and in his younger days lived and worked in Manitoba. Twenty-eight years ago he moved with his family to Chicago and one of the first things he did there was open a bank account at the Chicago branch of the Bank of Montreal.

T. W. PUE

But at the end of 1952 this bank had to close its doors, due to a state law that prohibits branch banking. Sometimes it is darned difficult to understand the American mentality. They lose millions of dollars because small, independent banks go broke, and stoutly refuse to allow the type of banking that has meant stability and security of funds to Canadians for generations.

A CHICAGO INSTITUTION

The Bank of Montreal, Canada's first bank, was established in Chicago in 1862. A writer in a Chicago newspaper, Hal Thompson, says that after 90 years this famous Chicago Institution, which is as old as the Chicago Board of Trade, withdrew and closed up rather than face the possibility of a series of suits attacking its legality in the face of state laws prohibiting branch banking.

But, Mr. Thompson says, the Board of Trade never raised a finger in protest. In spite of the fact that the Bank of Montreal was the best friend any Chicago business ever had. He says it was one of the board's early benefactors.

It supplied large amounts of capital which greatly aided in the development of the grain trade there. Also it assisted struggling traders to purchase memberships on the exchange "on time."

BANK AIDED TRADERS

We know of one instance where one of these purchasers was having a difficult time in meeting the interest payments on the loan he obtained from the bank for his membership, and the bank generously agreed to waive the interest. Unofficially we have been advised that there were other instances in which the bank has appeared in the role of a benefactor to members of the board.

Because of the "Good Shepherd" role which the bank adopted one would think that the board and its large membership would rally to the assistance of the bank in its hour of trouble. But such was not the case.

Board of Trade officials queried about their attitude toward the closed bank replied that it would be against the policy of the exchange to issue any statement on the subject. Carl Bostrom, president of the board, declined to comment.

Some board members, however, have expressed regret over the departure of the bank from Chicago.

Edwin A. Boerner of Harris, Upham & Co., said: "The contribution of the closed bank to the city's industry and especially to that branch of it concerned with agriculture has been a noteworthy one. To permit its closure because of a possible technical conflict with certain of our banking laws is regrettable, the injustice of which cries for immediate rectification."

George Koehl, veteran member, commented as follows: "It appears that the recent action by certain legal interests which culminated in the closing of the bank was something that was not justified in view of the bank's long standing in the state and the very important part it played in the development of midwest business and agriculture."

COULD HELP CLOSED BANK

No doubt the Board of Trade could help get the Bank of Montreal back in Chicago if they would get busy. But isn't it a fine thing that a free business institution can be put out of business in a so-called free country?

NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH by Russ Arnold

Voice of the People

HEADED FOR WHERE?

Is it back to the Bible or Matthew 15:9? Matthew 5th chapter says: Blessed are they which hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled. Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God. Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. If Mr. Manning fostering strife or causing division and ill feeling?

Rom. 14:5: One man esteemeth one day above another; another esteemeth every day alike. Let every man be fully persuaded in his own mind. This is the Apostle Paul's admonition. Has Mr. Manning read 1st Cor. 4:11-12, Acts 20:31-35, 2nd Cor. 11:9? According to the Bible Paul, wrought with his own hands and often went hungry in order to preach the Gospel of the Kingdom. He did not receive $12,000 a year salary together with other interests procured through private profit or private enterprise. No, he preached for the love of his fellow man, often going hungry according to his own statements. See Acts 4:34-37.

Mr. Manning's abuse over the radio where he cannot be contradicted, of honest, sincere Christian men, some of whom have spent as many years studying the Scripture as he is old, would be laughable were it not so serious from a Biblical as well as a historical standpoint. Some one has said prophecy is history foretold, and history alone will prove or disprove the truth of this statement. History has proven the truth of prophecy. I wonder if Mr. Manning has read the 25th Chap. of Matthew, especially verses 31-46? Or Rom. 14:4 or Rom. 12:19? Vengeance (judgment) is mine; I will repay, thus saith the Lord. It might be well to include Rom. 14:10.

Sincere, humble Christian men and women are wrought up over this soap-box Bible teaching, but they realize that the rulers of this present world (order, arrangement, chaos) are not to be the rulers of the world to come, when the restitution of all things takes place. Acts 3:21. In Mark 6:11, speaking to professing Christians, Verily I say unto you, it shall be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment than for that city. Perhaps the most charitable thing that could be said of Mr. Manning is, Father forgive him for he knows not what he does. Luke 23:34.

Lest any misunderstand me, let me quote Gal. 4:16: Am I therefore become your enemy because I tell you the truth

for miles of trouble-free motoring

In a typical rabies danger area, Forest Officer J. D. Champion keeps a close watch on the actions of wild life in the Athabasca district. Mr. Champion, at left, passes specimen containers to Ernest Ferguson (right), assistant timber inspector. The heads of suspected rabies cases are packed in these containers for shipment to Edmonton. At centre, the forest officer fires at a coyote in the wilderness north of Athabasca. During his inspection tour, Mr. Champion, in the photograph at the right, checks a lynx shot by trapper Irvine Jackson at Meyer Lake. Like many other trappers in the area, Mr. Jackson has agreed to report any suspicious signs of rabies on his trapline.

POISONED BAITS SET

Rabies Patrols Working in Athabasca Area

Forestry Officers Join With Trappers In Stemming Spread Of Epidemic From Wilderness Areas

The wilderness of northern Alberta today holds a serious threat to the hundreds of trappers, loggers and homesteaders earning a living in the forests and muskegs. This threat is rabies — the disease which turns shy foxes, coyotes and wolves into fearless marauders.

As the epidemic quickly spreads southward from Fort Fitzgerald in north-eastern Alberta, forest officers and rangers warned isolated areas of the threat and patrolled danger areas. The main movement of the disease-ridden animals is down the Athabasca and Peace Rivers to the Lac la Biche area and Peace River district.

A danger area lies north of Athabasca town in the Calling Lake and Wandering River districts. As part of the Athabasca forestry area, the district comes under the jurisdiction of J. D. Champion, the timber inspector Ernest Ferguson, assistant inspector, and three forest rangers. Mr. Champion keeps a close tab on the actions of wild animals within his area.

A Large Area to Cover

The Athabasca forestry district covers a large area bounded on the east by the shores of Lac la Biche, on the west by the Athabasca River south of Smith on the south by Township 62 near Perryvale, and on the north by Township 80, about 20 miles north of Pelican Portage. The forest officer works in co-operation with the District Agriculturist and the Game Officer in checking reports in the more settled areas, while radio keeps him in contact with the isolated centres.

In addition to the regular staff, the Department of Lands and Forests has hired four trappers to assist in the poisoning campaign within the Athabasca district. Another 18 trappers are working under the supervision of forest officers throughout the rest of the epidemic area, mostly in the Lac la Biche, Peace River, and Fort Mackenzie Highway.

The Athabasca crews were chosen because they were reliable and familiar with the use of poison. Each crew has its own dog team and can cover its area within a week. The men set out for the far end of the line with their poison and snares and work their way back to the rendezvous point. In this way, if they run short of poison, it is only a short trip back to the home base for more supplies.

When the poison lines have been established, the men make regular patrol trips, re-setting baits and bringing in the heads of suspected animals.

Each time the trappers reach Calling Lake or Wandering River, a report is made to the forest officer on the success of the baits on their lines. Suspected cases are sent to Athabasca where they are forwarded to the Veterinary Laboratory, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, together with information on the date and location of the kill. There they are packed with ice and sent in special containers to the Veterinary Research Laboratory, Federal Department of Animal Pathology, Lethbridge, where the medical diagnosis is made. The trapper also reports on the general condition of wild life in the area.

Mr. Champion and the rangers keep the more than 500 trappers in the Athabasca forestry area well informed on the progress of the epidemic in their district. He has also urged them to report any suspicious actions of animals and to bring in the heads of suspected specimens.

Some of the trappers are reducing the danger of rabies spreading to the wolf population by trapping the grey marauders, in the areas where large packs have been sighted. These men are visited whenever necessary and report any suspected cases.

A Large Rabbit Population

There is a large number of coyotes and foxes in the district, and numerous scattered packs of timber wolves in the wilderness. The rabbit population—which is the main diet for these animals—is also quite high and has been estimated to average 5,000 per square mile. For this reason, the buffer zone of poisoned baits and the assistance of trappers may play an important part in slowing or halting the general spread of the disease.

To insure that the proper precautions will be taken in sending case specimens for diagnosis, the Alberta Government has set up depots throughout the northern part of the Province. The depot at Athabasca is in the Provincial Building where most of the Alberta Government offices are located. The depot has large addressed metal containers supplied by the Veterinary Services Branch for the shipment of heads or carcasses of suspected cases, and rubber gloves for handling the bodies of any suspected rabid animals.

The people of Athabasca area have shown a great interest in controlling the epidemic and have cooperated by attempting to keep all dogs in the area leashed or penned up. The nearest confirmed cases have been at Boyle, 20 miles south-east, and Lac la Biche, 50 miles east.

The trappers in the Athabasca district work in two-man crews, setting out poison baits and snares near the 19th base line in the attempt to halt the southward progress of the rabid animals. Two trappers work out from Wandering River and another two from Calling Lake. One of the men sets bait east from Wandering River to a point between Townships 14 and 15, where he meets the trapper from the four-man crew poisoning a line in the Lac la Biche area to the Saskatchewan boundary. The other Wandering River trapper works west to the Athabasca River, where he meets one of the Calling Lake trappers who has a line between the river and Calling Lake. The fourth man moves westward from Calling Lake to Township 25 at the head of the Athabasca River near Moose Portage.

In this manner, a continuous 143-mile line of poisoned baits is set from the Saskatchewan boundary to Moose Portage.

A Modern "Wolfer"

Irvine Jackson is an example of a trapper who specializes in timber wolves. His main cabin is in the edge of Meyer Lake, 20 miles north-west of Athabasca, and has two smaller cabins farther in the bush. Mr. Jackson has more access to civilization than most trappers, as a lumber company road leads past his cabin to the highway and is passable in a jeep or heavy truck.

This trapper uses a large dog with pack sacks to help him on his trapline, rather than the popular dog teams which are commonly used in the north. When visited by Mr. Champion, the trapper showed interest in the progress of the epidemic, but reported no signs of mad animals on his traplines.

"There are a few packs of timber wolves in the district," he reported to the forest officer, "and I'm setting out poison near their runs."

PRECAUTION AGAINST RABIES

These are five simple precautionary measures against rabies:

1. Avoid any contact with wild animals.
2. Avoid any contact with domestic animals, particularly dogs, with which you are not familiar.
3. A wild animal which bites a human or shows suspicious signs of rabies should be destroyed immediately.
4. If a domestic animal shows signs of rabies, it should be tethered or placed in a pen and the case reported to the local District Agriculturist, Forest or Game Officer, R.C.M.P. constable or veterinarian.
5. If a human is bitten by a suspected rabid animal, the wound should be thoroughly washed with soap and running water and the victim taken immediately to a doctor, Public Health Nurse or Municipal Nurse for treatment.

Legume Silage For Dairy Cattle

Over the past few years legume silage has rapidly gained in popularity as a feed for dairy cattle. Indeed, some dairymen have developed the practice of curing all the legume-grass forage as silage for the winter supply of roughage. Following such a plan, cows are fed silage at a rate of approximately six pounds per hundred pounds of live weight daily. A simple low protein meal allowance is fed in conjunction with legume silage at a rate of two to four pounds per 10 pounds of milk produced.

This practice has advantages in that curing legume roughage as silage instead of hay ensures a better conservation of nutrients under adverse weather conditions. It also fits in with the current trend toward grassland farming and permits of a better distribution of labor in the rush harvest season.

Whether the feeding of silage as the sole roughage is superior to the more or less standard recommendation of feeding one pound of good hay and three pounds of silage per hundred pounds of live weight daily, has not been proved. The handicap to the standard plan is to provide a constant high quality in the hay.

Experiments at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont., have shown that wilted legume silage harvested under adverse weather conditions was equal to good quality hay when fed either as the sole roughage or with hay in the ratio of three pounds of silage to one pound of hay.

At the Experimental Station, Lennoxville, Quebec, when legume silage provided the full roughage complement, it was equal to corn silage and hay for milk production. The comparison was conducted through five winter seasons.

When legume silage is first introduced in the dairy ration, it does not appear to be as palatable as corn silage. Unless the cows are accustomed to it, they may at first refuse legume silage or nibble at it gingerly. However, providing the ration contains no spoiled material, their appetite for this silage will gradually increase to a high rate of intake.

While it has been shown that cows will produce well during the winter season on legume silage as the only roughage, it might be advisable to allow a small quantity of hay daily which will provide needed vitamin D and tend to increase the over-all consumption of roughage.

ALBERTA CITIES AND SCHOOLS TO GET FINANCIAL AID

EDMONTON. (BUP) — Alberta Premier E. C. Manning Friday night brought down an all-time record budget of $174,083,130 for the 1953-54 fiscal year, an increase of $50,506,160 over the current year.

Manning, who is also provincial treasurer, said the budget contained no new financial burdens for Alberta taxpayers because of the province's oil-rich economy profiting from the tremendous petroleum boom.

The budget contained provisions for $35,715,970 in loans to financially-distressed municipalities and other groups, more than balanced by estimated revenue from the oil industry during the coming year of $46,432,000.

It is the first time in history that Alberta has had a budget exceeding that of British Columbia, and it tops the Saskatchewan 1953-54 budget by more than $100,000,000.

The net Alberta budget is only $138,368,160 because the loans fund are not properly chargeable against expenditures. Manning said in his 85-page budget address to the legislature.

REVENUES UP

The premier estimated revenues for the coming year would total $138,368,160, an increase of $21,511,890 over the current year. Expenditures would come to $137,958,130, not including funds are not properly chargeable rent year's expenditures by $21,381,160.

Manning budgeted for a surplus of $410,030.

One of the most spectacular features of the budget was an estimated $8,132,000 increase in oil revenue for the coming year. Other big money-makers would be the fuel oil tax, $16,000,000; the tax rental agreement with the federal government, good for $30,135,000; and Alberta Liquor Control Board revenue, $14,000,000.

Besides the $25,000,000 revolving fund to supply loans to municipalities, the government planned to spend a record $35,952,200 on a vast highways construction program and greatly increased assistance to all government departments.

Manning warned that "continued development of our provincial economy and the steady growth of our population will, during the coming year, impose new and greatly increased demands on the public treasury."

"But the government is confident it will meet these demands without impairing the position of financial stability to which we have attained as a province," he said.

The premier said that despite record expenditures for social services and capital development during the current fiscal year, "Alberta became the first Canadian province to accumulate cash surpluses and investments in excess of its total indebtedness."

DEBT DOWN $69,724,000

He said the total public debt at Dec. 31, 1952, was $97,303,137, which was a reduction of some $69,724,000 since March 31, 1936. But the government had in cash surplus and investments, including $43,303,488 in outstanding loans, a total of $138,196,360, which exceeded the provincial debt by $40,893,223.

Manning declared that it was Alberta's "policy to repay the provincial debt immediately in order to continue programs of extensive aid to municipalities and build up of capital program. The debt would expire in 1973, Manning said, when all debentures reached maturity.

The largest departmental allotment was for the department of education, which will spend $18,618,130 during the coming year, while $15,627,400 will go into public health.

Premier Manning noted that Alberta reaped a fabulous harvest from its agricultural industry in 1952, an increase of $15,877,000 over the previous year.

This made farming still Alberta's biggest industry, with 1952 field crops totalling $550,690,000. Livestock marketings during the year, however, dropped by $32,912,000 to $133,434,000 due to the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak in southern Saskatchewan and its repercussions.

IRRIGATION PROJECT

The government was providing $3,810,000 for the St. Mary-Milk River irrigation development project this year, Manning said, and planned other irrigation projects in the semi-arid areas of southern Alberta.

He said that Alberta's oil resources continued to be developed at an "unprecedented rate" in 1952, with crude oil production reaching a record 58,915,723 barrels, an increase of 13,000,000 barrels over 1951.

There were 926 new wells completed during the year, to bring the provincial total to 3,664, while 14,902,396 acres of land was under oil and natural gas leases and 41,236,091 acres of crown and were under reservation exploration.

Manning said that natural gas production topped 95,697,000,000 cubic feet, and the government would "facilitate the establishment of adequate export markets for surplus gas at the earliest possible date," while protecting fully the interests of the people of Alberta.

The premier announced legislation for surplus gas at the earliest possible date," while protecting fully the interests of the people of Alberta.

IN THE OIL BUSINESS you PUT before you TAKE

Since the Leduc field was discovered in 1947, the oil industry in Western Canada has poured a whopping $900 million into exploring for new fields and developing the fields that have been found.

From this investment, the gross value of oil produced so far has amounted to about $460 million. And the net to the oil companies has been far less, for out of this amount they have paid field operating expenses, royalties, taxes, and other charges.

How come? That's the oil business. Before a profit return is realized, a lot of risk money has to go to work.

In the meantime, the people are benefiting. As a case in point, since Leduc, more than $160 million have accrued to the people of Alberta through oil industry payments to their government for royalties, rentals, and bonus payments. Across Western Canada, oil activity has brought increased government revenues, payments to farmers for surface use, new employment, and the lowest petroleum product prices in the country.

In the oil business you put before you take—but in the meantime, and at all times—the public benefits.

School Districts Get $5 Grant Per Pupil

EDMONTON (BUP)—Alberta education minister A. O. Aalborg Monday spelled out a new formula for increased aid to education and school construction in the province during 1953, especially as it applied in Calgary.

He said total Alberta school operational grants this year was $11,617,000, an increase of $1,747,000 over similar grants in 1952, and school building assistance grants have been jacked up to $2,700,000.

Aalborg said grants which formerly were paid on a sliding scale for each school classroom, depending on the grades taught in the room, would now be paid at one basic rate. And instead of school transportation grants being based on mileage and the number of pupils carried in buses, the government would pay a straight percentage of the cost of transporting pupils living in each school division and district.

The minister said the legislature also would be asked to approve a new system of grants whereby $5 would be paid for each pupil enrolled in provincial schools. This would require $898,935, a major bulk of the increased 1953 education appropriation.

Another change will be that instead of paying $20 per pupil at schools with abnormally large enrollments, the grant was being increased to $100 per pupil who was extra to the provincial average enrollment.

Fresh or fast-frozen raspberries may be used in raspberry trifle which consists of custard laid on successive layers of crushed macaroons soaked in sherry and raspberries.

Big pantry bill: In 1951 Canadians spent $3,400,000,000 on food.

tion would be introduced during the current session of the provincial legislature to set up a number of new loan funds.

The municipal loan fund of $25,000,000 would be on a revolving basis. The terms of the loans range from five to 25 years at interest rates rising from 2½ per cent to 3½ per cent annually.

It will be in addition to unconditional grants for the coming year of $7,385,108, which will be distributed on a per capita basis after being split evenly into two funds between rural and urban municipalities out of revenue from 50 per cent of the fuel oil tax of Alberta.

Manning said it would be left to municipalities to decide what portion, if any, of the increased outright grants would be passed on to ratepayers by reduction of mill rates, but the terms of the grants would afford "a greater measure of responsible self-government to local authorities."

EDMONTON GETS $1,273,000

He said that on the basis of the 1951 Dominion census, Edmonton would get $1,273,000 from the grant and Calgary's share would total $1,029,000. Lethbridge would get $183,000 by the same tentative estimate.

Manning told the House that no Alberta municipalities would have to go to the open market for loans in 1953 because of the increased grants and the new revolving loans fund.

A second revolving fund which it was proposed to set up was for $3,000,000 for the purpose of making loans to rural co-operatives to aid in expansion of rural electrification.

It was planned to supplement the fund until it totalled $10,000,000, with loans to be prepaid over a period not exceeding 10 years.

Federal Mediator Enters Strike

VANCOUVER (BUP) — The federal government intervened in the three-week west coast grain workers' strike Monday in a move to settle the wage dispute and resume multi-million bushel exports.

Federal mediator Bernard Wilson arrived and within hours had approached the five strike-bound Vancouver and New Westminster elevator companies and the striking CIO Grain Workers' Union.

Wilson declined to comment on what approach the federal labor department had instructed him to use but expected developments shortly. It was believed he was attempting to get the disputants to resume negotiations on the 250-member union's demand for a wage hike.

The companies previously refused to consider a higher rate, stating they would stick to the 1952 wage level.

Meanwhile, at Edmonton officials of the CNR said the Canadian Wheat Board is expected to give the green light to clearance of 25 boxcars to Alberta export grain for Prince Rupert to flank the grain-holding bottleneck.

About 5,500 CPR and CNR boxcars loaded with grain have been stalled in the province because of the strike.

Alberta Red Cross Crippled
Children's Hospital, Calgary, Alberta.

YOUR HELP TODAY WILL HELP THEM TOMORROW

Though the Alberta Red Cross Crippled Children's Hospital is only one of numerous Canadian Red Cross projects it is Alberta's most important consideration. During the peak of the 1952 polio epidemic, 149 patients were hospitalized. These were in addition to 142 patients who had been admitted to the hospital during the preceding ten months. What does it take to meet such an emergency and administer to our handicapped children? It takes a highly trained and skilled staff of doctors, nurses, physiotherapists, laboratory technicians, X-ray technicians, administrative and maintenance personnel . . . it takes provincial government financial assistance as well as all the support through contributions that the people of Alberta can possibly give. Red Cross work in Alberta is estimated at an annual cost of over $600,000. Of this total $321,940 will be required to carry on the work of Alberta's Red Cross Crippled Children's Hospital. After provincial grants have been deducted an estimated amount of $123,965 is still needed. When the Red Cross worker asks for your contribution . . . give as much as you can.

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa:

Do you think it is right for a woman to go out at night and leave her husband to take care of the children?

I married a girl from a nearby city. We live a few miles in the country, but several times each week she goes into town to musicals, bridge parties or for any other excuse she can find. We have a servant so she is not tied down in the day and she goes in every time she is invited anywhere.

She says that she goes alone because I won't go with her. Don't you think she is carrying this too far?

John W.

Answer:

Well, John, yours is an unusual question. Such letters generally come from wives whose husbands are gadding around and leaving the care of the children to them.

My idea is that marriage is a partnership where each party goes fifty-fifty. Now everybody needs some recreation and if wives and husbands enjoy the same kind, so much the better, but if not, a compromise must be made.

Instead of refusing to go out at all with your wife, why not agree to take one or two nights off a week and go in to a movie or party or whatever you care for together. If that doesn't suit, she might take a regular night off, and you do likewise. It seems to me that that should be sufficient if he has every day in which she is free to do as she pleases.

I think she is very unwise to follow such a course if she cares anything about having a successful married life.

Louisa.

Dear Louisa:

I am seventeen years old and my parents treat me like I might be a baby. They won't let me have dates and won't trust me out of their sight with a boy.

Do you think, under the circumstances, it would be all right to sneak out and meet my boy friends?

Julia.

Answer:

No, Julia, I wouldn't sneak out if I were you. It will cheapen you in the eyes of the boy and take away the protection afforded by your home and parents.

I'll admit you are in a tough spot. Your parents are being very foolish, indeed. The finest protection a girl can have is to be taught high ideals and then have the perfect trust of her parents. Girls, who are accustomed to associating with boys all of their lives, are much more capable of judging the true from the false than are those who are mistakenly forbidden to go with them until they are grown.

It is natural for boys and girls to like each other and want to be with one another. Try to make your father and mother see your point of view. You are old enough to know right from wrong and you should not be deprived of the pleasures of youth.

Louisa.

CO-OP INSURANCE REPORT SHOWS GOOD PROGRESS

EDMONTON—R. H. Milliken of Regina, Sask., Wednesday explained how a $50,000 loan was parlayed into a $42,000,000 business in less than six years.

In his report to the 44th annual congress of the Co-operative Union of Canada, Milliken traced the growth of the Co-operative Life Insurance company from its start in 1947 on a $50,000 loan from Co-ops in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. He said that the firm had $11,500,000 insurance in force at Dec. 31, 1952, an increase of $6,250,000 since the end of 1951, while investments earned an average of 14 per cent last year.

"The company has repaid the original loans and is now carrying on the business of life insurance in all Canadian provinces except Quebec, where negotiations are being carried on with the hope of entering that province soon," Milliken said.

He also reported on the formation last year of the Co-operative Fire and Casualty company.

"The great bulk of the insurance so far has come from the Maritimes," he said. "In the first six months of the company's operations $101,000 was received in fire insurance premiums and auto insurance premiums totalled about $30,000."

"Fire losses for that six-month period were 1.56 per cent of the premiums received, while auto losses were more than 44 per cent," he said.

BARLEY CONTEST PRIZES PRESENTED AT BANQUET

W. J. Keith of Sylvan Lake received a $200 prize as winner of the Alberta provincial section of the National Barley Contest, at a banquet tendered winning competitors by the Alberta brewers in the Palliser Hotel. The contest is sponsored by the National Barley Institute.

Close to 300 barley growers, some of them former winners, and brewery executives attended the dinner in the Crystal Room.

Mr. Keith also led the Southern Alberta region winners with his OAC barley, and for this was awarded an additional $100.

Nick Symyrozum of Athabasca, who took first prize in the Northern Region competition, placed second in the provincial section. Third place was gained by R. A. Chiswell (Arcan Farms), Lacombe.

Other winners in the Northern Region were: Pete Borduzak, Jr., of Vimy; N. G. Hills, of Legal; Robert Montpetit, of Legal; Albert de Champlain of Legal; Albert Dubois, Vimy; W. J. Van Lowenstein of Clyde.

In the Southern Region, winners in addition to Mr. Keith, were: R. A. Chiswell of Arcan Farms, Lacombe; L. R. Reynolds,

As chairman, T. C. Dancer, general manager of Sicks' Breweries, welcomed the guests, particularly those who had participated in the contest in former years.

The evolution of the beer business or "What has happened to the keg?" was light-heartedly traced by guest speaker, E. J. Munson, president of the Calgary Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Munson was introduced in an equally light-hearted manner by J. B. Cross, president of Calgary Brewing and Malting Co.

Prof. Thomas J. Harrison of Winnipeg, head of the National Barley Institute, outlined the Institute's recent research work and its efforts to persuade farmers to introduce beter varieties of barley.
